

SUBMITTING ARTICLES TO
THE GRISTMILL

The Board of Directors at the Fall, 2016 semi-annual meeting has approved additional options for authors submitting technical articles to The Gristmill relating to putting them on our website. (Technical articles are those about tools and related items that will be of interest to collectors, researchers and historians.)

Prior to these changes, the author could either allow a one-time only use of an article in The Gristmill in hard copy form or allow M-WTCA to put it on our website 12 months after it appeared in The Gristmill. Now authors have options to allow M-WTCA to put it on our website immediately or after 4 months. All other items still apply. We highly encourage this option.

Allowing M-WTCA to put your article or part of it on our website provides a broader readership, helps generate interest in becoming a member, and fosters the purpose of M-WTCA.

Since all of these options only grant M-WTCA a non-exclusive right to use your article, the copyright remains your property and you may grant similar non-exclusive rights of use to other publishers.

If you have submitted an article in the past and did not allow M-WTCA to post it on our website or wanted a 12 month delay, you can change that at any time by completing the Permission to Publish form.
